Tenure and Appointment Subject of Report

by Jim Davidson

The creation of a curriculum that sufficiently meets the needs and interests of A&S students is the task goal of the newly appointed Curriculum Committee of A&S Tribunals.

The committee is to be composed of various members who will gather the needed information and report at the next committee meeting.

The implementation of this plan was begun at the Wednesday meeting. Specific topics were assigned to various committees members who will gather the needed information and report at the next committee meeting.

The goal was to identify all students and faculty members, and to develop a system that will not interrupt current research, but will improve their performance in their respective fields.

A strong positive note for the new system was the report of University President William C. Gradison, who was optimistic with his new system.

The Board of Education has decided to accept the resignation of William C. Gradison, who was given a financial bonus.

Environmental Demands Spurs Spurce Action
by Delcie Bell
A petition signed "university responsibility to environment demands" was submitted by Cincinnati Express and begun circulating on campus Friday.
"This immediate action is in the result of the startling statistics of campus trash consumption we've acquired," stated Bill Reed, CTC, chairperson for Cincinnati Express and director of the Greater Cincinnati Recycling Center.
"Sixty-four tons of trash per week are generated on the UC campus," stated Larry Braun, supervisor of building services. This trash collection is handled by two Physical Plant employees who rake the trash into a city dump.
"With this information, Cincinnati Express has examined the possibility of coordinating efforts with the Hixson Recycling Plant and the University in a setup up a intra-campus recycling program," continued Reed.

Area Business Helps Students On Career Day
Several area businessmen were on campus Thursday acting as spokesperson for the third annual "Career Day" sponsored by Alpha Kappa Psi. This year's theme of "Studying the Possibility of Coordinating Efforts Among Area Business Administration Students and Students of Their Own Dollars," is the main objective of the event.
"The main objective was not college recruiting or interviewing, but a specific job-oriented session in several careers for not only business administration students but area businessmen as well," commented Larry Braun, supervisor of building services.

DAA Dean Establishes Three Ad Hoc Committees
Three ad hoc committees have been set up by Dr. Harold R. Rice, Dean of the College of Art and Architecture, upon recommendation of the College Advisory Committee and the College Administrative Council. The committees are the Committee to Study the Possibility of Coordinating Efforts Among Area Business Administration Students and Students of Their Own Dollars, the Committee to Study the Possibility of Coordinating Efforts Among Area Business Administration Students and Students of Their Own Dollars, and the Committee to Study the Possibility of Coordinating Efforts Among Area Business Administration Students and Students of Their Own Dollars.

Parking Decal Problems
Still Leave Cars Unpawked

The Office of Parking and Staff Services stated that all forged or stolen parking permits have been found since the beginning of semester quarters. There are 235 canceled, lost, stolen, or revoked permits that remain outstanding.

This could be a reason for the difficulties in locating a legal parking space in our own lots and driveways. Assistant Director James F. Benrud stated that each day he details three to four cars that are parked where they can 2 take care of without permits or with illegal permits. All students have copies of the illegal decals and permits, but during the rush periods, when cars are quickly passing through the various entrances, attendants may be unable to "spot" forged or stolen permits.

Benrud's concern is that even the three specially assigned attendants cannot thoroughly cover all of the parking area each day. On some occasions, just as an attendant has finished checking one area and has departed to another, a driver without a permit, $10 impoundment fee, $5 for having no permit, $5 for having no cooperation and refusal of the attendant to return. It is being proposed to the Board of Directors that the $10 fine for the use of a stolen or forged permit be increased to $25, raising the total fine to $40.

47 Seniors In Who's Who

Forty-seven UC graduating seniors will be listed in this spring's Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The publication recognizes outstanding students from across the nation. Students are selected by their university and on the basis of service to their college community, academic achievement, and accomplishment, and participation in community and society.

A brief biography of each student will be included in the publication. James Leader, Dean of Students, said that, besides being an honor, appearance in Who's Who is a valuable credential when applying for a job or graduate school.

UC seniors in the 1971-72 edition of Who's Who are:

Moss Lynn A. Alle, Miss Lin B. Bremmington, Geoffrey Boden, Mrs. John Burdick, Mrs. David D. Burch, Diane E. Cazabon, James C. Clendenen, and many others.

On November 10th, 1971, a group of students gathered in the Parking Office to discuss the problems of parking on campus.

The group consisted of students, faculty, and administration. They discussed the need for more parking spaces and the need for better enforcement of the parking rules.

The meeting was well attended and many ideas were presented. The group agreed to continue the discussion and to take action to improve the situation.

The Office of Parking and Staff Services has been asked to investigate the possibility of开辟 more parking lots on campus.

In the meantime, students are urged to use the existing parking lots and to cooperate with the parking attendants.

KICK YOUR OWN SELF

by MILT DE LAUX

Once upon a time Greg had displaced the necessary ability to open his mind and change. He denied perception of student government in his position, as a student of his participation while being a student. It should not be noted that Greg had the opportunity to investigate the issues of student government and the student's relationship to it.

The reason for this state could stand on this issue and they. They wound down the proposal.

Again it was noted that Greg has the opportunity to investigate the issues of student government and the student's relationship to it. The successful study of such proposals may have been equal, but the proposal was defeated.

The one thing that bothers me about Greg's headline picture of the honorarium and its involvement is the apparent support for the proposal. It would be well to also question Greg's source of the appropriate and pertinent issues which he is raising in his position.

The estimate for such expenditures is simple and not liable—of removing the discussion. But I was not satisfied with the content. (Continued on page 7)

For the past 5 to 10 years students have been talked about the non-profit bookstore.

Nearly two months ago, a student organization called the student bookstore, a student organization called the student bookstore, was formed to use student funds to buy a printing house. This organization was established, and the proposal was defeated.

The teaching of transcendental meditation is not a new phenomenon, but in recent history the technique has been brought to the Western world by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, a wandering monk and teacher of transcendental meditation.

After dropping a course in these circumstances the policy for refund is consistent with that which you will continue in a course, you should resolve the matter before the first day of class. By doing so, you will also be making courses which you do not want to take available to students who may wish to add them.

The teaching of transcendental meditation is described as the process of taking the mind from the field of outer and experiencing thought at finer levels until we go beyond the mind. Meditation is as ancient as mankind, says Dr. John Richman, founder of the International Meditation Society.

Rousing Performance

by Chris Bonhater

Those who managed to get there at the 7:30 p.m. showing of Handel’s Messiah were highly titled. As to those who attended at 2:30 p.m., they were thankful. Thomas and The Chamber Choir gave a rousing performance of the standing movement they received.

Even since the grand performance by 1742, the Messiah has enjoyed a steady popularity. Although it is the least popular and not the best of Handel’s arias, the Messiah reigns above the others for sheer popularity and emotional appeal.

It was evident Friday night that Thomas is a fine new conductor. His choice of tempo in some instances was unusual, but this added a freshness to the work. Under his baton the choral movement, the “He trusted in God,” and “Amen,” became shouts of joy. The manuscript and fine light articulation of “For unto a child” were a joy.

The continuity of the total work was hampered by the many different singers for the solo and tutti sections. We should applaud, however, that the masterful professional standard is retained. Chamber Choir is a steady producer about which we can learn. Thomas is to be applauded for his efforts in fostering the learning experience of solo singing to the few.

From the opening words to the last “Amen” almost twenty times loud, the experience was breathtaking. In the words of the composer, "I think I did all I believe, and the great God has blessed it.”

Great Production, Boys by Bill Anthony

It is easy to be Gilbert about homosexuals. Indeed, it seemed that much of the audience at "The Boys in the Band," expected a travesty or a freak show. To consider the subject matter of a serious light, as does author Mart Crowley, takes considerably more shift and understanding. I think few that went to "stomp the fags" left "The Boys in the Band," interpreted by the most powerful performance I have seen at UC Theatre.

The subject matter is certainly a selling point and attracted a unique audience, filled with all kinds of couples. One of the most important things about the play, however, is the accurate and sympathetic portrayal of homosexual life.

Director David Hibberd changed the beginning slightly to include a reading and feat Garland singing "Remember O River of the Rainbow." As William Gordon points out, in the book, the songs homosexual male subconscious shall never care the earth’s communications mystery and guiding them man.

The final scene, played by Earl Perry and Terry Folliot, is a touching reception of Emory, a homosexual’s lover, who is forever over the Rainbow. They, as a couple, are a symbol of love, identity, beauty, suffering, loneliness and tendency toward self-destruction. It is these points that give the play the impact of reality.

From the story of their individual histories beginning in the beginning look at the arrows and death of a homosexual’s tendência to the playing yet understood closing to the beginning.

The action takes place at a birthday party for Harold who is gay and brittle. At the party we gathered a variety of types including an uninsured beauty, a popular whores, a cross-dresser, a transvestite, a slender fanatic and a raggedy no-nonsense soul.

Students Meet To Support Sen. McGovern

About 25 students met Monday to form Student for McGovern. The new campus group will back the South Dakota Democratic Senator's presidential bid.

Associate Professor of History, Zane Miller, who is Hamilton County McGovern campaign chairman, explained the campaign's immediate objectives to the members. He said the group plans to accumulate 9,000 names on petitions supporting McGovern in Hamilton County, and 40,000 statewide. These petitions will then serve either as negotiating leverage, or to convince Governor Collins to name McGovern delegates to the national Democratic convention, or as a base of support for a primary campaign.
