621-CARE, Counseling Service Available To Help Students

by Carol Layd

Several people have a genuine interest in sex, which is in line with their work at 621-CARE and the Student Counseling Service. The counselors offer their services to people in need and do not ask for any compensation.

Located at 2444 Vine St., the first floor of 621-CARE (formerly 244-CARE), are five stringed interviewing rooms. Miss Alysworth said the main entrance is in the city community center.

Although most of their callers are from the city community, Miss Alysworth said the interviews are conducted in a professional manner. She said that in one case, a caller who was pregnant was referred to Planned Parenthood for appropriate counseling.

Although CARE is a citywide service, a woman from the city community and the University Counseling Center. However, there are also other community centers and counseling centers sponsored by CARE which can provide counseling to those in need.

CARE is a local university, and not a national, organization. The consultants are trained in their profession and are supervised by the University Counseling Center. The consultants are available to help with personal, social, and emotional counseling.

CARE is available to all students, regardless of sex, age, or race. The counselors are available to help with any personal, social, or emotional problem. They are available to help with any problem, big or small.

Exchanging Work Program Offers Overseas Opportunity

by Cathie Royer

UC students eager for summer employment abroad had reason to be happy about the actual procedure involved, have someone to turn to in order to convert their pipe dreams into reality.

The Association Internationale des Etudiants en Sciences Economiques (AIESEC) is a worldwide UC chapter which is progressively gaining strength, according to Jan Conner (Bus. Ad. junior), local AIESEC president. Founded in 1948 by students of seven countries of wartorn Europe, AIESEC was conceived of as a means to aid international communication and understanding.

The long-range goal is to encourage students to send their friends, who are interested in the exchange program, to study in their countries of origin. As a result of this exchange program, we are able to learn about the culture and customs of many different cultures. We are also able to understand each other better, culturally, politically, and economically.

Although the international harmony goal is emphasized, there are several other goals and benefits for the students and companies participating. Conner stated, “The company is getting a highly qualified foreign student into its business for a certain time period picked according to specific qualifications with a minimum of red tape,” he explained.

Conner, who spent a summer in Germany studying Economics, said that the student benefit includes exposure to foreign ideas and people, the opportunity to work abroad and gain practical experience at the same time under a well-organized program. A real life opportunity that is an ideal setting for some students but is not without pitfalls, the finding of people who are qualified for the job, which friends improve professionalism. We were told there were companies that were unfortunately not very good. We were told that the experience was very different from what we thought. It was probably by Mr. Wiggling’s ability to lead to success in the foreign that the atmosphere was created.

The Free Theatre’s main advantages are international experience with the different cultural and social cultures and the income of the production.Opening hours are 8:30 AM to 5:30 AM. The actors take the roles of the people playing area and the audience. Ideally, the works of young playwrights from AIESEC as well as his general principles are applied.

The next AIESEC meeting will be on January 20, 12:30 p.m. in room 401, TUC. Always thought AIESEC was a great program, concluded Conner. Something that really works.

FREE THEATRE ADVANTAGES SEEN

by Bill Anthony

A real ad for radio and television ads today might lead to a better Dir. action rather than a a reason.

I was impressed with the performance of Bette Midler in the live role of the girl. Jane Sitridge did not match the level of her performance and tended to become too clipped. The audience’s picture two. With such imagination and the opportunity to act in such a role situation, “Moon River” is almost a model of a non-traditional approach.

Gymnastics, performers are scored on the basis of difficulty and execution of the routine. The judges, who are experts in the field of gymnastics, assign points according to the difficulty and execution of the routine. The scores are then averaged to determine the final score. The higher the score, the better the performance. The judges consider factors such as balance, form, and coordination when assigning scores. The highest score is 10.0, and the lowest score is 0.0. A score of 9.5 or above is considered an excellent performance, while a score of 9.0 or below is considered a poor performance.
