Student opinion on 24-hour visitation in dormitories varies

By BARBARA L. PINKE

Born to the University are still sore, as well as a number of part-time faculty members. The student government is struggling to find a solution to the problem of overcrowding in the dormitories. The student body is divided on the issue, with some students calling for the elimination of all visitation, while others believe that some form of visitation is necessary for the social and academic well-being of students.

By MICHAEL R. MILLER

The State Board of Education Monday met to decide whether to grant the University of Cincinnati's request for 24-hour visitation. The board had previously granted the request, but the university has been fighting for the extension of the agreement.

The State Board of Education will vote on the issue on Tuesday, with a decision expected to be made by the end of the day.

By J. K. NORMAN

The University of Cincinnati has been granted permission to extend 24-hour visitation for the fall semester. The decision was made after a hearing on the matter, which was held last week.

By JOHN NDERO

The University of Cincinnati has been granted permission to extend 24-hour visitation for the fall semester. The decision was made after a hearing on the matter, which was held last week.

By DONNA FEISL

The University of Cincinnati has been granted permission to extend 24-hour visitation for the fall semester. The decision was made after a hearing on the matter, which was held last week.

By JERRY OSBORN

The University of Cincinnati has been granted permission to extend 24-hour visitation for the fall semester. The decision was made after a hearing on the matter, which was held last week.
Bennis hosts 86 leaves of absence

President Brian J. told the Board of Directors he plans to bring recommendation on faculty salaries and student fees for the next academic year to the Board at the February meeting, but no later than the March meeting.

He reported to the Board that the Board of Regents adjusted salary appropriation to the UC uncontrollable expenses for $21,000,980. If the total student appropriation by the legislature which which would the total equivalent student enrollment.

The Board approved the appointments of Stanley R. Trooper to vice president and director of the president's office and Harold Fishbein, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, as director of the student body office.

The Board also approved a name change for the department of urban planning and design. The design awarded by the department will be a bachelor's or graduate plan.

The name of the Gym Road was changed to Kenton Drive. The Road leads to the Center for Performing Arts. It was named in honor of R. J. Ralph and Patricia Carbor.

Eighty leaves of absence for family members and administrators were approved by the Board.

According to Fishbein, this will enable the accommodation of the academic affairs chairman, and the academic affairs chairman, and the academic affairs chairman, will take care of the full leaves if those academic leaves will be covered by their colleagues.

Correction

In the Jan. 15 issue of The News Record an erroneously reference to the Killings at Kent State and Jackson State Universities as more than 40 did not mentions one of the students who was killed in the article after it had been submitted by the reporter. The News Record regrets the error.

Alaska oil railroad proposed

A Canadian research group was told last week that an Alaska pipeline could be replaced by a railroad line through Canada. The Canadian Institute of Guided Ground Transport at Queensland University advises that a transcontinental railroad line from the Arctic oil fields would have several distinct advantages over the proposed pipeline.

First of all, says the institute, the railroad line would not risk the Alaska pipeline, an effect which is likely to occur if the line is to be taken over from international, the railroad would be constructed from Alaska and the oil fields. While the effect of earthquakes is minimal, the ground transportation. The proposed pipeline route at present takes the oil over 500 miles by rail from the active area.

Finally, the report states, the cost of transporting oil by rail would be lower in the long run. The major drawback, however, is the cost, if it is to be completed in five years, while the railroad will not.

Further information on the proposed pipeline may be obtained from the company that will be responsible for building the railroad.

AT&Twins court decision vs. students

Students at the University of the study that they will have a WATS (Wide Area Telephone Service) line installed on campus. A WATS line is a special service which will make an unlimited number of long-distance calls at a flat monthly rate.

The Federal Communications Commission decided last week that the tariff filed by American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) did not require them to extend the Interdistrict Exchange Association. The key phrase on AT&T's side is that it may be that are not in the direct interest of the purchaser.

AT&T argued that personal calls would not fall under that guideline.

FCC added that present regulations may be unacceptable and opposing passing the measure to the FCC tariff board to review.

AT&T's spokespersons said they were examined a request to the University of the study to consider selection of long-distance rate hour by hour during the debate but then placed it on the FCC Original grounds.

The Associated Students at Arizona had based their marketing that advertised nationwide WATS line at an office of $200 a month. The students had figured that by allowing people on campus to toll calls using a WATS line rather than their private telephones, a single WATS line could save the students a contract $15,000 a year. They had further calculated being able to toll call up to five lines would save the students up to a half million dollars during the school year.

AT&T, which serves this function for big businesses, declined the students' proposals would not be very profitable for the company regardless of their evaluation to install the service.

AT&T Twin Court decision vs. students

Students at the University of Arizona in Tucson lost a landmark battle against the phone company in their effort to have a WATS (Wide Area Telephone Service) line installed on campus.

A WATS line is a special service which will make an unlimited number of long-distance calls at a flat monthly rate.

The Federal Communications Commission decided last week that the tariff filed by American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) did not require them to extend the Interdistrict Exchange Association. The key phrase on AT&T's side is that it may be that are not in the direct interest of the purchaser.

AT&T argued that personal calls would not fall under that guideline.

FCC added that present regulations may be unacceptable and opposing passing the measure to the FCC tariff board to review.

AT&T's spokespersons said they were examined a request to the University of the study to consider selection of long-distance rate hour by hour during the debate but then placed it on the FCC Original grounds.

The Associated Students at Arizona had based their marketing that advertised nationwide WATS line at an office of $200 a month. The students had figured that by allowing people on campus to toll calls using a WATS line rather than their private telephones, a single WATS line could save the students a contract $15,000 a year. They had further calculated being able to toll call up to five lines would save the students up to a half million dollars during the school year.

AT&T, which serves this function for big businesses, declined the students' proposals would not be very profitable for the company regardless of their evaluation to install the service.

AT&T Twin Court decision vs. students

Students at the University of Arizona in Tucson lost a landmark battle against the phone company in their effort to have a WATS (Wide Area Telephone Service) line installed on campus.

A WATS line is a special service which will make an unlimited number of long-distance calls at a flat monthly rate.

The Federal Communications Commission decided last week that the tariff filed by American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) did not require them to extend the Interdistrict Exchange Association. The key phrase on AT&T's side is that it may be that are not in the direct interest of the purchaser.

AT&T argued that personal calls would not fall under that guideline.

FCC added that present regulations may be unacceptable and opposing passing the measure to the FCC tariff board to review.

AT&T's spokespersons said they were examined a request to the University of the study to consider selection of long-distance rate hour by hour during the debate but then placed it on the FCC Original grounds.

The Associated Students at Arizona had based their marketing that advertised nationwide WATS line at an office of $200 a month. The students had figured that by allowing people on campus to toll calls using a WATS line rather than their private telephones, a single WATS line could save the students a contract $15,000 a year. They had further calculated being able to toll call up to five lines would save the students up to a half million dollars during the school year.

AT&T, which serves this function for big businesses, declined the students' proposals would not be very profitable for the company regardless of their evaluation to install the service.
Calendar

- There will be a Vet's Club meeting at 8 p.m. next Thursday in the upper hallway of the Student Union.
- The UCF bowl squad will be facing Ohio State this week. St. Joseph's first bowl will be at 7 p.m. on Thursday.
- There will be a memorial service for the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., on Monday at 1 p.m. in the St. Francis School auditorium.
- The third concert of CCM Symphony will be given at 8 p.m. on Saturday.
- The student body is invited to the 8:30 p.m. service on Sunday in the Caruth Memorial Church.

Education committee criticized for passage of student union bond issue

The Education Committee of the Southern State Board of Education on Monday approved the $1.5 million bond issue for the construction of a new student union building.

The bond issue was approved by a vote of 8-3, with two abstentions. The issue will be placed on the November ballot for a referendum.

Opponents of the bond issue argue that the building is not needed and that the money should be used for other purposes.

However, proponents of the bond issue argue that the building is necessary to accommodate the growing student population and to provide additional space for academic and extracurricular activities.

The bond issue is one of several that have been proposed in recent months for the construction of new campus facilities.

The Education Committee voted to approve the bond issue, despite objections from some members of the Southern State Board of Education.

The issue will now be forwarded to the Southern State Board of Education for final approval.

The new student union building is expected to be completed by the fall of 2024.
Turnover in administration

Today the News Record includes photographs and Newsgroup information on the problems of meager financial support of the school, faculty overload, lack of athletic programs, and the dissatisfaction of professors. The news of March 29, 1978, shows that the school faces a financial crisis.

A number of changes have been implemented to reduce costs. The administration has decided to eliminate the department of Business Administration, which has caused a great deal of dissatisfaction among the faculty. The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Education, which is also facing financial problems.

In addition, the school is considering the elimination of the department of Fine Arts, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Biological Sciences, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Physical Education, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Mathematics, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of History, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of English, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Economics, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Political Science, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Sociology, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Psychology, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Geography, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Anthropology, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Music, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Art, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Theater, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Dance, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Film Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Latin American Studies, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Asian Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of African Studies, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Middle Eastern Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Slavic Studies, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of European Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Comparative Studies, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Women's Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Gender Studies, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Environmental Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Urban Studies, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Environmental Science, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Earth Sciences, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Environmental Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Earth Sciences, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Environmental Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Earth Sciences, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Environmental Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Earth Sciences, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Environmental Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Earth Sciences, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Environmental Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Earth Sciences, which is facing financial problems.

The school is also considering the elimination of the department of Environmental Studies, which is facing financial problems. The administration has also decided to eliminate the department of Earth Sciences, which is facing financial problems.
LaSalle performance a spoof

By JAMES WIERZBICKI

It is not uncommon today for concertgoers to attempt to appear in some intentionally funny, but it is a rare thing indeed when such a work succeeds.

The “Quartet” by Mauricio Kagel is such a work, and thanks to its brilliance performed by the LaSalle Quartet Tuesday evening, it was successfully communicated to the audience.

Kagel’s “composition” (I hesitate to call it a “music”) was one of the most completely unsuspecting crowd, in to communicate its humor to the audience.

One had to see it to believe it. Here was the usually staid LaSalle Quartet, playing a violin with a glove on the left hand, with a bath towel covering the strings, trading instruments in mid-performance. The first part of the work ended with violinist Jack Kirstein playing his instrument “in reverse” until he was finally struck by a considerate and affectionate gesture from first violinist Levin.

The work’s second half began with aarious solo by Kirstein. The sincerity with which he burned his cellphone number on fire if ever he worked with Harpo Marx.

If an award were to be given for best all-around performance of the evening, it was certainly the LaSalle Quartet with a group of Cin-

The piece was divided into two parts, the first an early 20th-century ragtime composition, and the second a work of serious classical period.

Levin and violinist Peter Kamienski did well in supporting roles. They managed to keep the audience from giving any serious thought to what was really happening on stage.

As a whole it was a perfectly ridiculously composition, and it was performed admirably. Cincinnati audiences are not likely to see anything similar for a long time.

Tuesday’s performance was the world premiere of Kagel’s “Quartet.” It was commissioned for the LaSalle Quartet by a group of Cin-

The Quartet also maintains a lively flexibility in its approach to contemporary music, and the finished product proved that they are fine actors as well as superb musicians.

Ferguson and MJQ bring ‘Jazz in January’

Maynard Ferguson and The Modern Jazz Quartet will perform in concert at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Wagner Auditorium will be the site for Ferguson’s orchestra Friday night, while Concert Auditorium has been scheduled for The Modern Jazz Quartet’s performance Saturday night.

Ferguson’s avant-garde trumpet has helped sidestep conventional ideas for 35 years. As a member of the Modern Jett quartet, he has helped revolutionize the jazz sound in the mid-50s. Playing cornet like “Hey Jude,” “I’ll Do It” and “Country Road,” the Maynard Ferguson Orchestra is the epitome of the big band sound of the 40s. But, anything similar for a long time.

The Modern Jazz Quartet (MJQ) is a group without any personnel changes in over 20 years, and they remain as unique in perfecting circles. The quartet, which consists of clarinetist James Carter, on drums, Peter Erskine on bass, and(bird, have developed a varied jazz sound which has easily carried them through the rock era when so many other groups have disappeared.

In what Lewis admits is a 20-year attempt to bring respectability to classical music, MJQ has developed a repertoire which includes Bach and Beethoven, as well as “jazz” favorites like Jackson’s “Bag’s Groove,” and “Bimbology.”

Tickets for both concerts feature $’5 at the door.

The brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon extend an invitation to all U.C. students to attend the inventory annual Queen of Hearts.

BECAUSE IT'S THE BIGGEST DIAMOND  MAKE SURE IT'S THE BEST

Queen of Hearts

Dance

featuring SNAP from 9 to 1 at Music Hall

$2.00 Donation per couple all proceeds go to the Heart Fund

For Men in 2nd and 3rd Year of College, for College Seniors and Recent Graduates, the Navy New Offers Career Opportunities Through Five Different Leadership Programs

If you’re a college student, you know that leadership and responsibility—and a challenging career that will not just teach you how to lead the crowd—the new Navy has important and exciting news for you. Now, if you’re in your second or third year in an accredited college, studying toward a bachelor’s degree, you are one of the Navy Reserve Programs that allow you to continue your studies—at the same time.

Or, if you’re a senior, or if you’ve recently graduated, the Navy has a choice of Leadership Programs that lead directly to commissions and the prestige and respect you deserve. It’s a way to start your career.

If you’re interested, check the programs that interest you, then call our toll-free number. We’ll help you make the best decision for your future goals, professional interests and aspirations.

Newspaper Positions for College Men Who Want Responsibility Fast

For Men in 2nd and 3rd Year of College, for College Seniors and Recent Graduates, the Navy New Offers Career Opportunities Through Five Different Leadership Programs

If you’re a college student, you know that leadership and responsibility—and a challenging career that will not just teach you how to lead the crowd—the new Navy has important and exciting news for you. Now, if you’re in your second or third year in an accredited college, studying toward a bachelor’s degree, you are one of the Navy Reserve Programs that allow you to continue your studies—at the same time.

Or, if you’re a senior, or if you’ve recently graduated, the Navy has a choice of Leadership Programs that lead directly to commissions and the prestige and respect you deserve. It’s a way to start your career.

If you’re interested, check the programs that interest you, then call our toll-free number. We’ll help you make the best decision for your future goals, professional interests and aspirations.

Newspaper Positions for College Men Who Want Responsibility Fast

For Men in 2nd and 3rd Year of College, for College Seniors and Recent Graduates, the Navy New Offers Career Opportunities Through Five Different Leadership Programs

If you’re a college student, you know that leadership and responsibility—and a challenging career that will not just teach you how to lead the crowd—the new Navy has important and exciting news for you. Now, if you’re in your second or third year in an accredited college, studying toward a bachelor’s degree, you are one of the Navy Reserve Programs that allow you to continue your studies—at the same time.

Or, if you’re a senior, or if you’ve recently graduated, the Navy has a choice of Leadership Programs that lead directly to commissions and the prestige and respect you deserve. It’s a way to start your career.

If you’re interested, check the programs that interest you, then call our toll-free number. We’ll help you make the best decision for your future goals, professional interests and aspirations.

Newspaper Positions for College Men Who Want Responsibility Fast

For Men in 2nd and 3rd Year of College, for College Seniors and Recent Graduates, the Navy New Offers Career Opportunities Through Five Different Leadership Programs

If you’re a college student, you know that leadership and responsibility—and a challenging career that will not just teach you how to lead the crowd—the new Navy has important and exciting news for you. Now, if you’re in your second or third year in an accredited college, studying toward a bachelor’s degree, you are one of the Navy Reserve Programs that allow you to continue your studies—at the same time.

Or, if you’re a senior, or if you’ve recently graduated, the Navy has a choice of Leadership Programs that lead directly to commissions and the prestige and respect you deserve. It’s a way to start your career.

If you’re interested, check the programs that interest you, then call our toll-free number. We’ll help you make the best decision for your future goals, professional interests and aspirations.
Bennis Administration:comings and goings

Following are many of the individuals involved in administrative changes since the new academic year began in September. 1973. Some were the result of personal choice, and others were to new to the normal attrition pattern.

Warren E. Bennis

Warren E. Bennis became the eighth president of the University of Cincinnati on June 12, 1973, in succession to Robert J. Fopma, associate professor of educational administration and dean of university administration.

Ralph Burialek

Ralph Burialek, vice-president for administration and treasurer, was named as one of the Operations of the University.

Gene Lewis

Gene Lewis, professor of educational administration, is on sabbatical leave for the remainder of this academic year.

Robert O'Neil

Robert O'Neil retired after 14 years of service as an administrator at the University of Cincinnati.

Stanley Troup

Stanley Troup was named dean of students in January 1973.

Charles Johnson

Charles Johnson, director of student services, was named dean of students in January 1973.

Gary Penfield

Gary Penfield was named vice-president for institutional development and community relations.

L. David Lipschitz

L. David Lipschitz, who was named vice-president for student development in 1972, has been appointed vice-president for finance and administrative services.

George Rieveschel

George Rieveschel, professor of educational science, was named dean of the School of Education and Human Development.

Marquita McLean

Marquita McLean, associate professor of educational science, became dean of the School of Education and Human Development.

Walter Langsam

Walter Langsam was appointed to the post of vice-president for administrative services.

Stanley troup

Stanley Troup was named dean of students in January 1973.

Charles Johnson

Charles Johnson, director of student services, was named dean of students in January 1973.

Gary Penfield

Gary Penfield was named vice-president for institutional development and community relations.

L. David Lipschitz

L. David Lipschitz, who was named vice-president for student development in 1972, has been appointed vice-president for finance and administrative services.

George Rieveschel

George Rieveschel, professor of educational science, was named dean of the School of Education and Human Development.

Marquita McLean

Marquita McLean, associate professor of educational science, became dean of the School of Education and Human Development.

Walter Langsam

Walter Langsam was appointed to the post of vice-president for administrative services.

Stanley troup

Stanley Troup was named dean of students in January 1973.

Charles Johnson

Charles Johnson, director of student services, was named dean of students in January 1973.

Gary Penfield

Gary Penfield was named vice-president for institutional development and community relations.

L. David Lipschitz

L. David Lipschitz, who was named vice-president for student development in 1972, has been appointed vice-president for finance and administrative services.

George Rieveschel

George Rieveschel, professor of educational science, was named dean of the School of Education and Human Development.

Marquita McLean

Marquita McLean, associate professor of educational science, became dean of the School of Education and Human Development.

Walter Langsam

Walter Langsam was appointed to the post of vice-president for administrative services.

Stanley troup

Stanley Troup was named dean of students in January 1973.

Charles Johnson

Charles Johnson, director of student services, was named dean of students in January 1973.

Gary Penfield

Gary Penfield was named vice-president for institutional development and community relations.

L. David Lipschitz

L. David Lipschitz, who was named vice-president for student development in 1972, has been appointed vice-president for finance and administrative services.
The dean's

Campbell Crockett

Crockett Crockett, professor of mechanical and aerospace engineering at The University of Akron, was recently named dean of the College of Engineering.

Samuel Wilson

Samuel Wilson was acting dean of the College of Business Administration when Arthur B. Samuelson of the college's faculty assumed the position.

Alberio Simone

Alberio Simone, associate professor of mechanical engineering, was named dean of the College of Engineering.

Hendrik Gideonse

Hendrik Gideonse, former dean of the College of Business Administration, was named dean of the College of Education.

James Alexander

James Alexander, associate dean of the College of Business Administration, was named dean of the College of Education.

Robert Daniels

Robert Daniels, former dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, was named dean of the College of Education.

Viclor Schwartz

Viclor Schwartz, associate professor of political science at The University of Akron, was recently named dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Lawrence Hawkins

Lawrence C. Hawkins, professor of computer science at The University of Akron, was recently named dean of the College of Information Technology.

Jack Watson

Jack M. Watson, dean of the College of Education at The University of Akron, was recently named dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Cornelius Wamander

Cornelius Wamander, professor of computer science at The University of Akron, was recently named dean of the College of Information Technology.

Frank Neuffer

Frank R. Neuffer, dean of the College of Engineering at The University of Akron, was recently named dean of the College of Science.

Bruce Kaufman

Bruce R. Kaufman, former dean of the College of Engineering at The University of Akron, was recently named dean of the College of Science.

Ernest Munoz

Ernest T. Munoz, associate dean of the College of Education at The University of Akron, was recently named dean of the College of Science.

Ohio news roundup

A proposal to establish a university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

The committee on the university- funded computer network in the area was announced at the University of Akron.

COLUMBUS (AP)—The head of Ohio's Democratic party says he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

William A. LaFave, a former director of the state's Democratic party, said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.

LaFave referred to a provision in the state's election law that allows candidates to keep secret the amount of money they spend, but keep secret the amount of money they spend on television and radio ads.

LaFave said he wants to appeal to the state's election law to pay for his re-election campaign.
The Hives-Wazo Preview

By NANCY HVELI and JOE WASSIL

Well, we've been waiting a long time for this one. For years before the prognosticators would outline Hives' gnarly teams, and friends, the sun rose higher and higher and higher and our excitement never waned. Now, finally, there is hope. A chance to play some new music, to create a movement on our own. Speaking of movements, here's the story. The game, the rumor, has it that the student pep band will return for the first time in years to play some new music, a movement on its own. In other words, a grand slam for referencing them, the band, you're good and we-like what you play, but we've liked it for the last two years. Five to four, by four.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE (9-3) at NORTH CAROLINA (10-1):

Jan. 19 - Game of the Week - UCLA (11-4) at Notre Dame (9-6), 7 p.m., AT&T Park, Berkeley, Calif.

Well, here's the deal. While UCLA and Notre Dame are both in the mix for a national title, the Wolfpack is not. There is no doubt that the Wolfpack has the quality talent that can outshine Hives' gushy guesses, and friends, the kitchen, the only place where the students can figure out who is cooking and what.